The project named Towards a Fair Redistribution of Unpaid Care Jobs in Serbia is being implemented by the Fenomena Association, in cooperation with the Center for the Promotion of Healthy Lifestyles - Center E8. The project is supported by UN Women. As part of the project, the Victimology Society of Serbia is participating in the development of an advocacy plan for the redistribution of unpaid care jobs in the local community. The project should contribute to solving the problem of redistribution of unpaid care jobs in the following ways: by raising the capacity of women's and youth organizations and by making an evaluation of the pilot initiative with recommendations; the project targets the problem of the invisibility of unpaid care and household jobs as something valuable and drives organizations to advocate and encourage the public policies and investments needed to reduce and redistribute care work performed by women.

The main activities of the project are:

Activity 1: Participation in an online seminar on advocacy for the redistribution of unpaid care jobs in the local community

Activity 2: Development of the final document of the advocacy plan on the topic of redistribution of unpaid work by organizations in the local community

Activity 3: Presentation of the advocacy plan at the final online conference

The project is being implemented from 15.10.2020 - 20.1.2021.
